WE ARE PROUD OF BEING FACULTY OF APPLIED SCIENCES

School of Applied Sciences, after being published in the Official Gazette of Turkey under the regulation of 4146 Presidential Decision on 24th of June 2021, will continue under the name of Faculty of Applied Sciences.

Thanks to our journey that has been started under the roof of Istanbul Gelisim University as a 4 year School, we as the academics, administrative staff, and students are so proud of being Faculty of Applied Sciences.

From the beginning of our education journey, with both enlarging our program numbers and adding innovative content to our programs, we aim to develop ourselves and gain momentum in the education area. As Faculty of Applied Sciences, we would like to congratulate and wish that our faculty will be beneficial to our country, to Istanbul Gelisim University family, to the education community, and to our students.

We would like to express our gratitude to all directors and academics who contribute.

News from Our Alumni

Hello! I am Umut Coşkun, a graduate of the International Trade Department of School of Applied Sciences.

After being a student of the department in 2016, I graduated successfully in 2020. I used the School of Applied Sciences' numerous opportunities offered to students, then got a start in business.

In the program, I gained enough experience in the fields of accounting, logistics, human resources along with microeconomics and macroeconomics to execute. Thanks to the detailed education, I had a chance to discover my abilities and improve my personal development that helped my process of finding a position. I am still working in Sagro Company's accounting department. I believed that I reached my middle-term target which makes me happy.

When I stepped into business life, I realized that the practical and theoretical education that I had was so convenient and comprehensive. I would like to express that the students and the candidates of the International Trade Department and Istanbul Gelisim University are so lucky. Lastly, I would like to thank all professors in the School of Applied Sciences and the Department of International Trade.

Interview

The Manager of Elektrosan Electronic Supplies Co. Ltd, Aydın Büyükoğlu

"Of the authority and the responsibility, the way of using them and when they will be used could not be taught in schools, instead, they are the teachings of life experience!"

Dear Aydın Büyükoğlu, firstly, we would like to thank you for accepting our invitation. With no further ado, which state is the understanding of management science and directorate in today's world?

I would like to start with wishing health to the readers and students. As, I am not an academician, not a science person, or do not have time to follow publications about management science so I am not an expert. But I can speak for my 40 years of experience in managing and various observations.

When we started working in older times of my career, there were not many corporate companies. There were family-based companies and we witnessed the transformation from family-based ones to anonymous companies. We started working as engineers then became the managers of those companies which were a process of matter. In those years, the relationship between regional companies and international companies contributed to our working life in terms of management and management.

Interview

If we consider managing is global, the process of globalization forces companies all around the world to interact with other international companies eventually in years. They are also forced to transfer supplies, commodities, and services. For this reason, communication enables connection. In foreign countries, science comes first, then management is fed by the universities' and reaches our country with information systems. On the contrary, applications of foreign companies in our country are to employ Turkish managers and transfer them to regional ones for introducing our country to them.

As we are not in the Industrial Revolution era, the transformation of the new viewpoint of management has turned from seeing the employees as working machines to seeing managers as the process holders, workers for the benefit of both workers and the companies. There is now a human-centered view of the scientific techniques and applications of the area. Besides, managing a job is normally confronted by engineers, doctors, and attorneys but now this job is executed by the graduates of engineering faculties of industry and business schools. However, higher-ranked companies' managers hold degrees from the engineering faculties of electric, mechanical, civil engineering.

The managing understanding appears to us to be more dynamic, relaxed, well-equipped in recent years. It also appears that managers are now more enriched, bilingual, experts in languages, good at pronouncing, good at reading and speaking, know their potentials and authority, who do not use these threats to bully others, good at transferring knowledge to others, open to criticism, and open to developments.

What are the manager's qualities and how do they improve themselves?

First of all, the management, business, the company, top management, and country values, made-produced business or service, even to the social structure of employees, even the city, beliefs, beliefs, and values. There is no such thing as a single management style or technique. Due to my work, I caught the opportunity to be in more than twenty countries abroad and watch them and have different experiences in different countries.

Interview

Some of the behaviors and jobs that are true and legal for a country have heard that the opposite is applied in another country. The manager, such as all things, also has to develop forward and free thoughts. I will say here, the current ones for the moment may not be correct after a few years. Therefore, management science should be in continuous change. "What should the manager's qualities be?" primarily on the question "How should an executive be like?" If we look up the form we can be more intelligible in my opinion.

Employee and distant to their subordinates, excessive commitment from them, not recognizing, non-target-free, purpose and strategy, communication and persuasion is weak, unable to be able to share, sharing and exchange of ideas, in difficult situations, effective and respected, image, to his appearance, clothing People who do not take care of or provide some of them, do not be able to make administrators.

"How should a manager's qualities be?" In addition to the opposite of some priorities, it can establish the authority of the dignity and integrity, who can make their ideas in difficult situations that can be confident in difficult situations, which will be able to make the ideas, which will be freely considered to think freely by encouraging the ideas of their managing, and that they can make their ideas in difficult situations. and the moral values can be counted as a balanced use.

There should be no limit for developing yourself, firstly you should not waste time with minor details. You also do not waste your time with social media that are not so beneficial to yourself compared to art and sports.

Interview

Youngers should not be a part of swirls that waste their time and energy. Apart from that, they should improve their skills, improve their communication and social skills, and lastly enrich themselves will enable them to be distinguished among others in following years. To know foreign languages is so important. We do not forget that an official who comes for investing in our country while selecting the responsible manager could choose the person who can speak her language even if others have the same level of competence. There should also be no limit to enriching yourself. You should be interested in every art and sports activity to both help yourself and the others. These activities would be music, dancing, literature, and different sports branches. To focus on 3 playing an instrument, knowing notes, using knowing sound to sing a song appropriately are important. If you cannot sing then you can read books or listen to the relevant podcast to enrich your vocabulary for your future life. We do not forget that "word is magic!" so you should know and use your mother language well.

Rhetoric is important for us, for this reason, we should take elocution courses to gain an advantage among other directors and companies. Additionally, stance, gesture, image, and body language are important. These are also inseparable from the managers in recent years. Sports such as tennis, squash, table tennis, sailing, and similar personal sport could be done by the managers. Also, they could go on walks and run. You do not forget that you will need high effort performance and activities in crisis. When you are doing sports, you feel independent and you can create time to make clearance to yourself. From beginning to ourselves, if we look for how we become better, how we go further then we can develop and enrich ourselves. In this sense, I would like to use Bill Boggs saying that I like, "To stand where you are in, is the way going back faster."

What are the hardships and the attractive points of being a manager?

I would like to say it is not a hardship but a challenge in critical action. In intense moments, as we have to make a choice, we may decide wrongly, but there is no chance of being offended, angry, or shooting. Of course, you might be angry but first, you should learn how to control your anger. You should listen to the person in front of you without interrupting, breathe deeply if you have a chance to go out, and have a moment to calm down will work. Then you should calm the responding person. You are in charge so you should feel the responsibility and authority.

Interview

If you are entitled fairly to the position, you may see the power of the authority you have. The merit is important for the position and the employees. If there is merit then others will show you respect or else you will not be respected. One of the attractive points is about being respected by the employees, having phone calls from old colleagues and employees who are even from 30-40 years older. You may feel the joy of being remembered and thanked by the interns, assistants, and other colleagues. Lastly, it is priceless to hear an old colleague's words about aggrandizing and thanking...

What would you recommend for those who want to be future directors and interested in management science?

Of the authority and the responsibility, the way of using them and when they will be used could not be taught in schools, instead, they are the teachings of life experience! They are also related to many factors and need emotional intelligence. We should have high communication and social skills to transfer to employees. What does a manager do? A manager is the responsible person of a company whose aim is to gain profit so a manager tries to help the company to gain more money with little source. In the end, if the company gains more, a manager would gain more. The little source represents the minimum wage for the employees, minimum usage of the supplies with higher productivity for the higher profit. To maintain this 4 process, it is impossible to make it alone so here keeping it balanced is important. If you manage the money capital and the social capital well, you would be a successful manager and become a respected manager.

My advice to the younger generation would be; the one who is not useful for herself, cannot be useful for her country and her company. You should choose the job in which you would be happy. So, you should free your mind and thoughts, do not mind the fixed idea, use science, and enter a master's program after getting a B.A. degree. To be respected, you should enrich yourself, employ skillful managers, conduct your orchestra well, or else no one will listen to any word of yours! ...

We would like to express our gratitude to dear Aydın Büyükoğlu for his invaluable contribution...

I would like to thank the Faculty of Applied Sciences, Istanbul Gelisim University...
