VITAMIN D USE PREVENTS THE TOOTH CAVITY FORMATION

MAY 23

2022

Assoc. Dr. Fatıma Betül Baştürk, Faculty member at Istanbul Gelisim University Faculty of Dentistry, discussed strategies to protect oral health with the usage of vitamin D, stating that the formation of dental caries is dependent on numerous factors ranging from a person's diet to the quality of their saliva.

“THE FIRST THIRTEEN YEARS ARE VERY SIGNIFICANT IN VITAMIN D SUPPLEMENTATION”

Vitamin D, which is essential for human health, plays an active role in fighting many health problems as well. In persons with low vitamin D levels, poor oral hygiene can lead to a variety of gum and dental problems.

Stating that vitamin D deficiency in pregnant women also increases the susceptibility to caries due to insufficient production of enamel tissue in the future.

WHILE COVID-19 REDUCES ITS IMPACT, IT LEFT MENTAL DISORDERS BEHIND

2022

Many habits have changed in our lives with Covid-19.

While Covid-19 reduces its impact, it left mental disorders behind. Isolation processes, stress, and anxiety caused mental problems while the pandemic diminishes its effect. Asst. Prof. Arzu Somay stated that “Post-Covid Stress Disorder” definition has emerged.

The global spread of Covid-19, which generated a global pandemic, has changed people's social lives all over the world. Following these quarantine days, the transition to online working and teaching methods had an impact on mental health, resulting in the loss of human relationships as well as increased stress and anxiety as a result of uncertainty.

PERSONNEL WORKING WHILE SICK CAUSE MORE LOSS

2022

Asst. Prof. Dr. Seda Mumlu Karanfil, Faculty of Economics, Administrative and Social Sciences, Department of Aviation Management at Istanbul Gelisim University, indicated that the productivity of the personnel who work from the workplace while they are sick is lower than those who never come to work, however, how efficiently they work could not be determined.

Personnel working while sick cause more loss

THE LOSS OF PRODUCTIVITY CAUSED BY PRESENTEEISM IN THE WORKPLACE IS 72%!

Seda Mumlu Karanfil, Faculty member at Istanbul Gelisim University, stated that in the research conducted by the health improvement services provider AdvancePCS (2003), the productivity losses caused by absenteeism in the companies were 28%, while the productivity losses caused by the presence at the workplace were determined as 72%. Karanfil also added the following:

“Today, many people have health problems, however, despite their health problems, employees continue to work without permission. While this causes cost losses for the workplace, it also causes low productivity for its employees. The apparent presence at the workplace, also known as presenteeism in the literature, shows that if the employee is sick or has different individual and organizational problems, continuing to work is a more costly and invisible problem than absenteeism.”
