

“ELECTRONIC CIRCUITS PROJECT EXHIBITION” WAS HELD

36 projects of Istanbul Gelisim University, Aviation Electrical and Electronics and Electrical and Electronics Engineering Department students met with students and academicians at the "Electronic Circuits Project Exhibition". At the event supported by IGU Technology Transfer Office (IGU-TTO), it was seen that many of the students' projects were prepared for application to TEKNOFEST, one of Turkey's prestigious technology competitions.

IGU progresses with the vision of "Research University" and adopts a modern, developing, productive and quality education approach with its projects and collaborations by contributing to the production of new technologies. 36 projects of Aviation Electrical and Electronics and Electrical and Electronics Engineering Department students, carried out under the supervision of Lect. Izzet Yavuz, met with students and academicians at the "Electronic Circuits Project Exhibition". While the students gained important experience in the exhibition, which started with the opening speech of IGU Rector Prof. Dr. Bahri Şahin, it was seen that many of their projects were prepared for application to TEKNOFEST, one of Turkey's prestigious technology competitions.

THE REFEREE COMMITTEE ESTABLISHED BY ACADEMICIANS FROM IGU EVALUATED THE PROJECTS

With the support provided by IGU-TTO to students, young engineer candidates had the opportunity to realize their creative projects. Rector Prof. Dr. Bahri Şahin, who made the opening speech, once again emphasized how much the university attaches importance to technological innovations with these successes of the students. While the project exhibition demonstrated students' abilities to put academic knowledge into practice and produce solutions for the industry, it supported the university's technology-oriented education approach and gave students the opportunity to play an active role in the industry.

AQAS ACCREDITATIONS OF IGU, TURKEY'S MOST ACCREDITED UNIVERSITY, HAVE BEEN RENEWED!

At Istanbul Gelisim University, Turkey's most internationally accredited university, a meeting was held with the authorities of the International Independent Accreditation Agency and AQAS, a member of the European Quality Assurance Association, within the scope of discussing and renewing the international accreditation processes of academic programs.

Advancing with the vision of "Research University", Istanbul Gelisim University achieves success on a global scale with its internationalization policies and qualified education staff. While a total of 65 programs of Istanbul Gelisim University are found suitable for accreditation by German, British and US international accreditation organizations such as AQAS, ABET and AHPGS, students who graduate from departments accredited at IGU, Turkey's university with the most internationally accredited programs, have an internationally valid diploma. AQAS officials, a member of the European Association for Quality Assurance, established in 2002 in Germany, an organization that has evaluated more than 5000 programs worldwide, held a meeting within the scope of discussing and renewing the international accreditation processes of academic programs. Before the meeting held at IGU, 46 of which were accredited by AQAS, and Chairman of the Board of Trustees Abdülkadir Gayretli, Rector Prof. Dr. Bahri Şahin and Vice Rector Prof. Dr. Arda Öztürkcan held a meeting.

"IT ALLOWS THEM TO HAVE AN ADVANTAGE IN RECRUITMENT AND ADMISSION TO GRADUATE PROGRAMS ABROAD"

In the meetings held with the officials of AQAS, which certifies that the accredited program complies with European standards and principles, it was aimed to discuss and renew the international accreditation processes of academic programs. In the meetings where the outlines and criteria of the accreditation process were evaluated in general terms, discussions were held on the extent to which the criteria were applied at the university and the post-accreditation developments.

Stating that they have adopted the 'United Nations Sustainable Development Goals' and developed strategies in this direction, IGU Vice Rector for Quality, Accreditation and Internationalization Prof. Dr. S. Arda Öztürkcan: "As IGU, we have managed to remain the leader with all the accreditations we have received since 2018. Our departments, which have AQAS accreditation, allow them to have an advantage in recruitment and admission to foreign master's programs, as well as an important reference they provide to their students and graduates on a global scale with their international recognition, quality of education. As a result of our meetings with AQAS officials, we renewed their accreditation and interviewed for our 20 newly accredited departments. We stand out with our scientific, technological, social and artistic innovation activities and R&D studies by making plans in line with our sustainability studies and academic performances that provide added value to our university. I would like to thank everyone who contributed to our success."

"INTERNATIONAL SELECTIONS FROM THE PAST TO THE FUTURE" EXHIBITION MET WITH ART LOVERS!

The exhibition titled "International Selections from Past to Future", where the works of 33 artists from 13 different countries were exhibited, met with art lovers at Istanbul Gelisim University, Gelisim Art Gallery. The exhibition, organized by the Faculty of Fine Arts and curated by Prof. Dr. Ismet Çavuşoğlu, will be on display for visitors until February 5.

Istanbul Gelisim University (IGU) Gelisim Art Gallery continues to bring art lovers together with valuable works. "International Selections from Past to Future" exhibition; 33 different artists from various countries such as England, Bulgaria, America, Azerbaijan, Georgia, Russia and Slovenia participated with their works. Works produced with many different techniques such as painting, graphics, sculpture, ceramics and digital art are presented to art lovers. The exhibition, curated by Prof. Dr. Ismet Çavuşoğlu, can be visited until February 5.

"WITHOUT ARTISTIC DESIGN, A PRODUCT IS INADEQUATE"

Prof. Dr. Bahri Şahin, Rector of Istanbul Gelisim University, who attended the opening ceremony, stated: "Our university evaluates art separately from other sciences. We provide positive discrimination to art. Because humanity needs art. We are trying to highlight art and social sciences alongside technical sciences. Civilization has three pillars. These social innovation, artistic innovation and technical innovation. If one does not exist, the other does not exist. Let technical scientists, artistic scientists and social scientists come together around big projects. Without artistic design, a product is missing or not complete. When I look at the works made by our artists, I see that some of them have a direct relationship with the industry. In other words, as IGU, we desire an output-based education. "We care about quality, not quantity, in every field, including art."

Stating that all the works in the exhibition have different working styles and expressions, Curator Prof. Dr. Ismet Çavuşoğlu said, "In our exhibition, we provided a global approach by bringing what is happening in the world here and brought art lovers together here. We see technological touches in some paintings and compositions. We can say that technology and art come together. Our goal is to popularize the art culture in our university and raise it to a good level."
